Foreword

For thousands of years, astrology has captivated mankind with its ability to offer unique insights into human behaviour and personalities. But what about our faithful pets? Do these beings who share our lives, our joys and our sorrows, also possess distinct traits revealed by the position of the stars? In this book, we explore how astrology can shed light on our understanding of our pets and enrich our relationship with them.

The idea for this book came from the simple observation that animals, like us, show a variety of behaviours, preferences and reactions that sometimes seem mysteriously aligned with their own personalities. We set out to adapt the astrological principles known to describe human beings to our pets.

In these pages, you'll find a detailed interpretation of the meaning of the main planets - the Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus and Mars - in each sign and astrological house, applied to your pet's behaviour. The Sun indicates the animal's fundamental energy and deep motivations, the Moon reveals its emotions and instinctive needs, Mercury its way of communicating and interacting, Venus its preferences and affections, while Mars shows its energy and reactions in the face of challenges. In addition, planetary aspect astrology helps to deepen this understanding by revealing how the different forces at play may interact.

Astrology applied to our companions may seem bold or unusual, but it offers a fascinating framework for better understanding their behaviours, strengths and needs. Whether your pet is feisty like an Aries, lonely like a Capricorn or tender like a Cancer, this book is designed to help you interpret and nurture the unique relationship you share with them.

As you turn these pages, I invite you to discover a new way of seeing and appreciating your pets, under the light of the stars. In this exploration, you'll find revelations not only for understanding them better, but also for strengthening your connection with them, by responding better to their needs and respecting their unique traits.

May this reading bring you as much pleasure and discovery as we had in writing it, and may astrology guide you towards a new harmony with those who share your life and your heart.

Introduction

Pets occupy a precious place in our lives. They are much more than just companions; they become integral members of our families, providing comfort, joy and a loving, unconditional presence. Yet, despite our love for them, understanding their behaviour, preferences and reactions can sometimes prove complex. This is where astrology can prove a fascinating and novel tool for deepening our understanding of our companions.

This book is designed to introduce you to the astrological world of your pets. It will help you discover how the position of the planets at the time of your pet's birth can be reflected in its everyday behaviour. For example, you'll learn why a particularly communicative pet might have Mercury in Gemini, or why another animal likes to snuggle up in a quiet, safe corner of the house with the Moon in Cancer. Each planet, depending on its position in a sign or house, reveals a dimension of your pet's personality and behaviour.

We begin by exploring the significance of the major planets in the zodiac signs and astrological houses. You'll find clear, detailed explanations of how each planetary position translates into your pet's behaviour. For example, the position of Mars could indicate how your pet defends its territory, while the position of Venus could indicate how it expresses affection. We'll also take into account the aspects between the planets, which show how these celestial forces interact with each other and reveal your pet's traits and behaviour. These configurations can also highlight internal challenges, such as a tense aspect between the Moon and Saturn, which could suggest a more reserved or anxious companion.

We will also explore a fascinating aspect of astrology applied to pets: the compatibility between the animal and its owner according to their respective astrological charts.

This astrological journey is an invitation to observe your companion in a new light and cultivate an even more harmonious and rewarding relationship. Whether you're an astrology enthusiast or simply curious to discover another facet of your pet, this book is here to pique your interest and deepen your bond with him. By gaining a better understanding of your pet's astral constellations, you'll be better prepared to respond to its needs, anticipate its behaviour and share moments of complicity with it that will enrich your life and its own.

Your pet's sun sign

Your pet's Sun sign is one of the most fundamental keys to understanding its personality. In a star chart, the Sun represents the vital force, the source of energy that nourishes and motivates every living being. It's this solar position that reveals how your pet expresses its vitality, deploys its energy and seeks to assert itself in its environment.

His Sun is in the sign of Aries

Your Aries companion is a true adventurer. He's bursting with energy and doesn't hesitate to plunge headlong into new discoveries. Enthusiastic and always ready to play, he'll stimulate you with his liveliness and intrepid nature. They need action and will quickly tire of monotony, so offer them stimulating activities. His spontaneity and courage make him a loyal companion.

His Sun is in the sign of Taurus

Your Taurus companion appreciates comfort and stability. A lover of simple pleasures, he likes to spend time lounging in his favourite spot or enjoying treats. They are loyal and gentle, but can be quite stubborn when it comes to changing their habits. Patient and loving, they are particularly loyal to you. Offering him moments of relaxation and quiet walks in nature will keep him happy.

His Sun is in the sign of Gemini

Your Gemini companion is curious and mischievous, always ready to explore the world around him. His quick mind makes him very responsive to commands and he loves learning new tricks. He needs mental stimulation, so vary the games to keep him interested. They are sociable and enjoy company, bonding easily with humans and other animals. His joie de vivre and communicative nature will add a touch of lightness to your everyday life.

His Sun is in the sign of Cancer

Your Cancer companion is sensitive and deeply attached to his home and family. He needs to feel your affection and can become clingy when seeking attention. Cuddling and spending time together are essential to his happiness. His loyalty and gentleness make him a caring and loving companion.

His Sun is in the sign of Leo

Your Leo companion loves to be the centre of attention. Proud and confident, he'll impress you with his presence and the way he behaves. He has a passionate temperament and loves to be praised for his achievements. Give them games that show them off and demonstrate their bravery. They're also protective and loyal, ready to do anything for their family. Don't forget to compliment them often to make them feel valued.

His Sun is in the sign of Virgo

Your Virgo companion is observant and attentive to detail. He may be more discreet than others and likes to feel useful, whether by bringing a toy, your newspaper or following your orders precisely. Clean and meticulous, they may show a preference for order. They can be shy around new people, but once they've gained confidence, they'll prove to be loving and indispensable.

His Sun is in the sign of Libra

Your Libra companion is sociable and charming. He loves to be surrounded, whether by other animals or humans. With a gentle, conciliatory nature, he avoids conflict and prefers a peaceful atmosphere. They can sometimes be indecisive, hesitating to choose between several options. Appreciate their friendly nature and provide them with a life full of cuddles and affection, and they'll thrive on harmonious interaction.

His Sun is in the sign of Scorpio

Your Scorpio partner is intense and mysterious. He develops a deep bond with you and constantly watches over your well-being. Protective and courageous, he may be suspicious of strangers, but will prove to be a devoted companion. They have an inner strength and determination that makes them tenacious. Show him plenty of respect and give him the space he needs to relax.

His Sun is in the sign of Sagittarius

Your Sagittarius companion is adventurous and full of energy. Always looking for new experiences, he loves long walks and outings in the great outdoors. His enthusiastic, optimistic nature is contagious, and he enjoys playing with other animals and meeting new people. They may have an independent streak, but always come back to you, ready to share their zest for life. Give them space to run and play.

His Sun is in the sign of Capricorn

Your Capricorn companion is solitary, serious and disciplined. He likes to have a well-established routine and can be very responsible. He learns quickly and is often docile, especially when he knows he'll be rewarded for it. Calm and reliable, they are protective and take their role as guardian seriously. Provide regular activities and quiet time to soothe them.

His Sun is in the sign of Aquarius

Your Aquarius companion is unique and unpredictable. Independent and curious, they like to explore in their own way and can surprise with their originality. They tend to enjoy company, but they don't like constraints and can be stubborn if they feel limited. Attracted by anything new, they appreciate innovative toys and stimulating games. Encourage their creativity and respect their need for freedom.

His Sun is in the sign of Pisces

Your Pisces partner is tender and intuitive. He can easily sense your emotions and seeks to bring you comfort. Sensitive and gentle, they can be reserved and prefer a meditative environment. Their eyes can express great depth and sincere empathy. Offer him a soothing space and show him patience. In return, he'll offer you unconditional love and constant support.

Your pet's moon sign

Your pet's lunar sign is a reflection of its deep emotions and innate sensitivity. In the astrological chart, the Moon embodies moods, instinctive reactions to everyday situations, and fundamental needs for security and comfort. To understand how your partner reacts to challenges, what makes him feel comfortable or uncomfortable, and how he seeks to protect himself, it's essential to study his Moon. It guides his daily behaviour and shapes his emotional well-being.

In this chapter, we'll discover how the Moon, depending on the sign it's in, reveals the way your pet experiences his day and his interactions. You'll learn how to adapt your approach to meet its emotional needs and boost its confidence. For example, a pet with the Moon in Cancer will need tenderness and stability to feel secure, while a companion with the Moon in Sagittarius may seek adventure and novelty to thrive. Thanks to this exploration, you'll be better prepared to support your pet in its moods and cultivate habits that bring it comfort and happiness on a daily basis.

His Moon is in the sign of Aries

Your companion has boundless energy and a fearless nature. He reacts quickly to stimuli and is often ready to embark on new adventures, with an enthusiasm that's almost contagious. Expect moments of spontaneity and a willingness to defend their territory with courage. To help him flourish, let him explore and run around as he pleases, while making sure he has a quiet place to rest.

His Moon is in the sign of Taurus

Calm and attached to his habits, your companion is a true lover of comfort and moments of relaxation. They love to be petted for long periods of time and to take long naps in familiar surroundings. This companion responds positively to care and affection. Make sure you maintain a stable routine and offer him comfortable spaces where he can relax.

His Moon is in the sign of Gemini

Curious and lively, your pet loves to explore and discover its environment. They are sociable and bond easily with other animals and people. His quick reactions and dynamic movements show that he soon gets bored if he isn't stimulated. Vary your dog's walks and games to keep it interested.

His Moon is in the sign of Cancer

Deeply attached to you and your home, your companion is infinitely tender and needs to feel protected. He can be sensitive to changes in his environment and can sometimes become anxious when his bearings are upset. Give him lots of cuddles and make sure he feels secure and constant.

His Moon is in the sign of Leo

Proud and charismatic, your companion loves to be the centre of attention. He's affectionate and likes to impress those around him. He may react theatrically and try to show off. Give him lots of love and praise for his efforts. Compliments make him happy and boost his well-being.

His Moon is in the sign of Virgo

Observant and intelligent, your companion is attentive to detail and can be a little wary of new situations. He has a cautious temperament and can be particularly sensitive to cleanliness and order. Take the time to teach him new things, as he adapts well to precise routines and appreciates a structured environment.

His Moon is in the sign of Libra

Sociable and friendly, your companion enjoys company and is always looking to please. He responds well to positive interactions and prefers to avoid conflict. He can be a natural mediator when he's in a group. Make sure he receives plenty of attention and encourage his sense of co-operation by bringing him into contact with other animals.

His Moon is in the sign of Scorpio

With their deep, intense gaze, your companions have complex emotions and a strong attachment to you. They are protective and can be wary of strangers. They have a keen sense of emotions and intentions. Offer him a strong, stable bond, and be patient with his intense reactions, which show how loyal he is.

His Moon is in the sign of Sagittarius

Exalted and adventurous, your companion has a great daily need for freedom and discovery. He loves exploring new places and can sometimes appear independent. Offer him long walks and stimulating activities to satisfy his need for adventure. They thrive on discovery and play.

His Moon is in the sign of Capricorn

With a serene soul, your companion has a calm and responsible temperament. He can be more independent and likes things to be orderly and predictable. His loyalty is exemplary, and he responds well to stable routines and clear rules. Offer him a reassuring environment where he knows what his expectations are.

His Moon is in the sign of Aquarius

Independent and singular, your companion's reactions are unpredictable. They can be both very sociable and reserved, depending on the situation. They like new things and enjoy intellectual play. Be ready to stimulate his soul with varied activities and new experiences to satisfy his need for change.

His Moon is in the sign of Pisces

Very sensitive and empathetic, your companion reacts to the emotions of those around him. He can feel what you're feeling and be very affectionate when you need comfort. He's a dreamer and can lose himself in moments of contemplation. Make sure he has a quiet space to retreat to, and be aware of his tendency to absorb the moods around him.

Your pet's Mercury sign

Mercury, the planet associated with communication, plays a key role in the way your pet expresses its needs and interacts with its environment. The sign in which Mercury is found in your pet's chart reveals how he communicates: is he direct and energetic, or rather subtle and observant? The sign occupied by Mercury can indicate whether your pet is a curious explorer, always ready to discover new things, or a more reserved companion, preferring to observe before acting.

In this chapter, we'll explore how your pet's Mercury sign reveals the way he behaves and makes himself understood, whether through barking, mimics, postures or other forms of non-verbal language. You'll discover how to interpret his signals to improve communication between you and meet his expectations as fully as possible. For example, an animal with Mercury in Gemini might be talkative and alert, while another with Mercury in Taurus might prefer a calmer, more sensory approach. This knowledge will help you better understand its needs and strengthen your relationship by adjusting your interactions to its unique personality.

His Mercury is in the sign of Aries

Your companion has a lively and enthusiastic way of communicating. He barks quickly and without hesitation when he wants something, being spontaneous and direct. His intuitive intelligence makes him quick to react, and he may even be the first to get your attention when he sees something new. You'll need to be ready to handle his boundless energy and bold way of "talking".

His Mercury is in the sign of Taurus

Your companion has a gentler, more measured approach to communication. He expresses himself in a steady manner and prefers to use gestures or discreet growls rather than barks. He likes comfort, and this can be seen in the way he communicates his needs, especially in relation to food or relaxation. You may see him calmly insisting that you give him a moment of petting.

His Mercury is in the sign of Gemini

Your companion is a true vocal explorer, loving to make a multitude of different sounds and growls to get your attention. Always on the lookout for new information and interaction, he may seem to be constantly talking, sniffing curiously at everything around him, and expressing his enthusiasm for every little discovery. You'll find him a sociable companion who loves to stimulate your attention with his playful demonstrations.

His Mercury is in the sign of Cancer

Your companion communicates with a touch of tenderness and sensitivity. His looks and little whimpers are full of gentleness, seeking your attention and comfort. He often seems to tell stories with his eyes and has a great capacity to perceive your emotions. You'll see that his protective behaviour is accompanied by moments when he wants to stay close to you, expressing a need for security and emotional warmth.

His Mercury is in the sign of Leo

Your companion likes to be noticed and may bark in a noble, proud way to express himself. His movements are often exaggerated, and he has a knack for grabbing your attention in a dramatic way, whether it's wagging his tail brightly or adopting a dominant posture. Expect him to use his communication skills to show that he's king of the house.

His Mercury is in the sign of Virgo

Your companion is particularly attentive to his environment and may react discerningly to stimuli. His signals are subtle, his barks short and specific, as if he wanted to convey a very precise message to you. He quickly understands commands and seems to analyse situations before responding. You'll be impressed by his ability to pick up on details and discreetly alert you when he perceives something unusual.

His Mercury is in the sign of Libra

Your companion communicates gently and seeks to create a harmonious bond with you and others. He uses elegant signs, such as a charming look or a little moderate barking, to express his needs without insistence. They enjoy interacting with other animals and people, and their polite, friendly manner makes them a popular companion. You'll see him trying to resolve conflicts with a simple soothing movement.

His Mercury is in the sign of Scorpio

Your companion has a piercing gaze and a way of expressing himself that could almost seem mysterious. When he barks or growls, it's often to signal something important, as if he perceives hidden truths. His interactions are marked by emotional intensity and unwavering loyalty to you. You may see him watching intently before reacting, thinking about how best to communicate his point of view.

His Mercury is in the sign of Sagittarius

Your companion loves to explore and may bark happily to express his enthusiasm at the idea of going out or discovering new places. He's exhilarated, and has an air of philosophy about the way he interacts. He communicates with you by inviting you to accompany him on his adventures, and his barks often ring out with optimism and excitement.

His Mercury is in the sign of Capricorn

Your companion expresses himself thoughtfully and moderately. You may see him wait patiently before barking, as if he wants to be sure it's necessary. His communication is measured, and he uses precise signs to get your attention. His behaviour shows a sense of responsibility, and he may point things out to you seriously, showing a protective and vigilant nature.

His Mercury is in the sign of Aquarius

Your companion likes to surprise people with his unique behaviours and inventive ways of making himself understood. He might use short, rapid barks, or even particular gestures that seem to indicate forward thinking. He's curious about everything new and likes to interact in ways that are out of the ordinary, which makes him particularly fun to watch.

His Mercury is in the sign of Pisces

Your partner is deeply intuitive and seems to pick up on your emotions without you needing to speak. His communication signals are often gentle, like a slight moan or a longing look. They can be very expressive when daydreaming or listening to music with you. He's the faithful friend who understands without words and responds to your moods with touching sensitivity.

Your pet's Venusian sign

In this chapter, we're going to find out what your pet's Venusian sign reveals, this key element that influences the way it expresses affection and its preferences in terms of comfort and well-being. Venus determines how your companion shows his attachment and seeks affection in return. Whether it's through enthusiastic hugs, gentle looks or more subtle gestures, the sign of Venus in his natal chart can help you better understand his affectionate behaviour and what makes him truly happy. In this way, you'll learn to recognise and nurture the gestures and interactions that strengthen the unique bond between you and your partner, enriching your relationship with an even deeper complicity.

His Venus is in the sign of Aries

Your partner loves with passion and spontaneity. Always ready to play or follow you on an adventure, he shows his affection with enthusiasm. His love is immediate and straightforward. Expect him to express his feelings with energetic gestures, such as running towards you barking happily.

His Venus is in the sign of Taurus

Your companion appreciates comfort and closeness. He loves to be petted, given treats and snuggled up against you for long naps. He's consistent in his displays of affection. He's slow to show his love, but when he does, it's warm and unfailing.

His Venus is in the sign of Gemini

This companion is cheerful, curious and social. They love interaction and constantly seek your attention by circling around you. He shows his affection by bringing his toys or barking cheerfully to get your attention. Variety and play are essential for their emotional well-being.

His Venus is in the sign of Cancer

Your companion has a deep need to feel close to you. Sensitive and protective, he's particularly attached to his home and his habits. He expresses his affection by staying close to you and may even adopt an almost maternal attitude, trying to take care of you in his own way.

His Venus is in the sign of Leo

Your partner likes to be the centre of attention and shows his affection in bright, dramatic ways. He may jump for joy or strut before you to show that he's there for you. His gestures are regal, and he expects you to admire and respond to his unconditional love.

His Venus is in the sign of Virgo

Your companion is delicate and attentive. He shows his affection by being helpful and doing little things to please you, like coming to you calmly or obeying your requests impeccably. He appreciates routine and simple attentions.

His Venus is in the sign of Libra

Your companion is looking for harmony and gentleness in his interactions. He likes to be surrounded by you and family members. Sociable and friendly, they show their affection by resting beside you with a gentle gaze and graceful gestures. They hate conflict and prefer peace and quiet.

His Venus is in the sign of Scorpio

Your partner is intense and has unshakeable loyalty. His love is deep, and he may even be possessive of you. He shows his affection with penetrating glances and a constant presence at your side. Expect moments of play that reveal his strength and passionate energy.

His Venus is in the sign of Sagittarius

Your companion is enthusiastic, playful and loves adventure. He shows his affection by his enthusiastic nature and his desire to share long walks or new experiences with you. His love is sincere and often demonstrated by energetic gestures and happy barking.

His Venus is in the sign of Capricorn

Your companion may seem reserved at first, but he's deeply loyal and loving. He shows his affection by his actions, such as staying close to you protectively. His love is constant and mature, and he prefers a soothing presence to demonstrative outbursts of affection.

His Venus is in the sign of Aquarius

Your partner is original and independent. He shows his love in unpredictable ways, alternating between moments of clear affection and periods when he prefers to explore on his own. Sociable and curious, he likes to be surrounded, but in his own way.

His Venus is in the sign of Pisces

Your companion is incredibly gentle and intuitive. He picks up on your emotions and is affectionate and comforting when you need him most. They love to snuggle up to you and can seem almost dreamy or mystical in the way they show their love. Their gestures are tender and soothing.

Your pet's Martian sign

In this chapter, we're going to delve into the Martian world of your pet, an area that reveals the way it acts, asserts its presence and defends what it holds dear. Mars indicates how your pet reacts to challenges, intruders and the environment it considers its territory. Knowing your pet's Martian sign will help you understand his impulses and the way he channels his energy, whether it's protective behaviour or unbridled enthusiasm when exploring new spaces. This will help you anticipate his reactions and create a harmonious living environment that respects his instinctive nature.

His Mars is in the sign of Aries

Your companion is full of energy, lively and always ready for adventure. They're brave, sometimes impulsive, and won't hesitate to defend their territory or their loved ones. Expect them to love playing, running and taking on challenges. However, their fiery spirit can sometimes lead them to be a little too reckless. To balance this energy, it's important to give them daily exercise and training to channel their enthusiasm.

His Mars is in the sign of Taurus

Your partner acts with constancy and determination. He's not one to rush into things, but when he does decide on something, he sticks to it. This stubborn nature can make him a little difficult to train if he's not motivated by pleasant rewards. They are protective of their home and family. Make sure he gets regular walks in nature and activities that stimulate his senses.

His Mars is in the sign of Gemini

Your companion is curious and playful, always on the lookout for new sounds, smells and interesting situations. He loves to explore and entertain himself with interactive games and varied activities. Their versatile nature can make them easily distracted, so patience is essential when training them. To stimulate their sharp mind, plan walks in different places and toys that test their intelligence. His favourite sport: games of skill.

His Mars is in the sign of Cancer

Your companion has a protective instinct and often acts on his emotions. He's very attached to his family and may be wary of strangers, but he's tender and caring towards those he loves. Sometimes they can be a little fearful or seek refuge in a safe place when they are worried. To make them feel at home, provide them with a warm, secure environment and gentle interaction.

His Mars is in the sign of Leo

Your partner is proud, charismatic and likes to be the centre of attention. He doesn't hesitate to show off his strength and bravery, often seeking to impress with majestic gestures. They are loyal and protective of their family, acting courageously when necessary. To make him feel appreciated, don't hesitate to praise and reward him for his exploits. They enjoy games that allow them to stand out and show their best side.

His Mars is in the sign of Virgo

Your partner is methodical and attentive to detail. He prefers a well-established routine and acts cautiously and efficiently. He may become nervous if things don't go according to plan. To cater for his organised nature, offer him structured walks and activities. He'll feel rewarded by taking part in tasks, even simple ones, that challenge his intelligence.

His Mars is in the sign of Libra

Your companion seeks harmony and acts in a measured way. He is sociable and enjoys the company of others, generally being friendly with other animals and people. Although he prefers to avoid conflict, he may defend his place or his toys if necessary. To keep him happy, provide him with positive interaction and playtime.

His Mars is in the sign of Scorpio

Your partner is determined, intense and capable of unshakeable loyalty. He can be very protective of his family and reacts strongly if he perceives a threat. He tends to keep his distance from strangers at first, but becomes affectionate and devoted to those closest to him. Provide him with an environment where he can feel safe and respected, and you'll have a loyal and attentive ally.

His Mars is in the sign of Sagittarius

Your companion is an explorer at heart, always ready for an adventure and bursting with enthusiasm. He loves space and freedom, and is driven by a constant need to discover new places and experiences. To channel his boundless energy, make sure you offer him long and varied walks, as well as games that stimulate him both physically and mentally.

His Mars is in the sign of Capricorn

Your partner acts with discipline and perseverance. He's thoughtful and takes his time to analyse a situation before reacting. This responsible nature makes him a reliable and protective companion. Although he may seem serious at times, he likes to work for rewards. To keep him happy, offer him progressive challenges and tasks that reward his determination. His favourite sport is hiking.

His Mars is in the sign of Aquarius

Your partner is unique and acts independently. He likes to do things his own way and can be unpredictable at times. He's intelligent and likes stimulating activities that take him out of his routine. To cater for his inventive nature, offer him interactive games and walks in unconventional places.

His Mars is in the sign of Pisces

Your partner is sensitive and intuitive. He acts according to his emotions and can sometimes seem dreamy. He prefers to avoid direct confrontation and often acts in a gentle, calm manner. To promote his well-being, make sure he feels surrounded by affection and that he has moments of calm and relaxation. They love swimming, gentle activities and quiet walks in company.

Your pet's Ascendant sign

The Ascendant is a key element in your pet's natal chart, revealing the first impression he leaves and the way he presents himself to others. The Ascendant reflects your companion's style and outward appearance. It indicates how other dogs perceive him, influencing his interactions and the perception he projects. Knowing your pet's Ascendant sign will help you understand what sets him apart from others, from his unique attitudes to his spontaneous behaviour.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Aries

Your companion presents himself to other animals with indomitable energy and boundless enthusiasm. Always ready for action, they love to show what they can do and defend their territory fiercely. Their lively and sometimes daring behaviour attracts attention and commands respect. But make sure you teach them to channel their enthusiasm, as they can sometimes overstep their limits without realising it.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Taurus

Your companion has a quiet, calm nature. He prefers peaceful walks and moments of relaxation, loving to feel the grass under his paws. His reassuring, stable presence attracts other animals, who appreciate his calm temperament. He takes his time to open up to others, but once he's comfortable, he's extremely loyal.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Gemini

Your dog is sociable and curious. He loves to communicate, whether through happy barking or lively movements. His playful, mischievous temperament makes him a much-appreciated member of the other animals, always on the lookout for new interactions. The others see him as the leader of the group, the one who brings a touch of lightness and fun.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Cancer

Your companion exudes gentleness and is often seen as protective of those he loves. Sensitive and sometimes a little reserved, he prefers to observe others before joining them. Other animals see him as a reassuring companion, attached to his territory and his loved ones. His affectionate gestures and attentive behaviour make him a much-loved creature.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Leo

Your companion likes to attract attention and present himself as the leader. He's proud, confident and loves to be admired, whether for his majestic bearing or his assertive movements. Other animals see him as a natural leader, charismatic and loyal. Your companion radiates vitality and loves to be the centre of attention, which makes him unique and unforgettable.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Virgo

Your partner is seen as meticulous and attentive. He likes to observe and is reserved. Other animals see him as a reserved and modest companion, who pays attention to detail and prefers tranquillity to the follies of others. His precise movements and discreet behaviour make him a special creature, who likes to be helpful and keep things tidy.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Libra

Your companion presents himself to others with charm and sociability. He loves to be surrounded, to play with others and to keep the peace. Its harmonious, friendly nature makes it a popular animal in groups, often the one who brings people together and calms conflicts. Other animals see them as mediators, bringing serenity and balance.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Scorpio

Your partner is perceived as intense and mysterious. He has a piercing gaze and a marked presence that leave no one indifferent. Other animals see him as a fascinating creature, capable of great loyalty, but also of fierce protection if need be. He has an aura of mystery and depth that sets him apart, and his determined gestures show that he knows what he wants.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Sagittarius

Your companion is the adventurer of the group, always ready to discover new territories and meet new people. His infectious joie de vivre and optimistic nature make him a much-loved and sought-after animal. Other animals see them as enthusiastic, energetic and always up for exploration and adventure.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Capricorn

Your partner presents himself to others as serious and dignified. He is cautious and thoughtful, preferring to assess the situation before committing himself. Other animals see him as stable and reliable, often perceived as a protector or wise elder of the group. They command respect for their calm nature and sense of responsibility.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Aquarius

Your companion is independent and sociable, enjoying varied interaction but in his own way. His unpredictable behaviour and unique way of presenting himself make him intriguing to other animals. He stands out for his altruism and curiosity. Other animals see him as a unique and stimulating companion, always ready to try something new.

His Ascendant is in the sign of Pisces

Your companion is perceived as gentle and dreamy. His behaviour is calm and soothing, often inward-looking and sensitive to the emotions of others. Other animals see him as an empathetic and mysterious companion, capable of creating a special, almost spiritual bond. Its ability to blend into the group while retaining its individuality makes it unique.

Your pet's House of the Sun :

In your pet's natal chart, the house in which the Sun is located is a valuable indicator of the sphere of life that most mobilises its energy. It reveals the areas in which your pet naturally invests its efforts and vitality, and highlights the major challenges it may encounter. This solar position helps you to understand what deeply motivates your pet and what experiences bring him the most satisfaction and fulfilment. Whether it's the need to protect its territory, to play enthusiastically, or to bond within its home, the house of the Sun illustrates the aspects of life where your pet shines and expresses its inner strength.

His Sun is in the 1st House

If your partner has the Sun in the 1st House, it's very likely that he or she has a strong personality and easily attracts attention. Your partner is probably very expressive, energetic and likes to be at the centre of household activities. He shows a natural vitality and may be very self-confident.

His Sun is in the 2nd House

Your companion is particularly attached to his possessions, such as his toys or bed, and may be a little possessive of them. His main motivation is to feel safe and well looked after. You may see him putting a lot of energy into protecting what he considers his possessions.

His Sun is in the 3rd House

If your pet's Sun is in the 3rd House, this indicates a curious, communicative and sociable animal. He's probably very active mentally and enjoys interacting with those around him, whether other animals or members of your family. He enjoys walks, games that stimulate his mind and new discoveries in his environment.

His Sun is in the 4th House

Your companion feels most fulfilled when he's at home, surrounded by his family. He actively seeks out the warmth and security of home, and can be very protective of you and other members of the household. He's very attached to the family environment and invests himself fully in it.

His Sun is in the 5th House

For your companion, life is a party. He loves to play, to have fun, and to be at the heart of playful activities. He's undoubtedly an animal that stands out for his sporting prowess or his ability to entertain and bring joy to those around him. You'll see them putting all their energy into play and friendly competition.

His Sun is in the 6th House

If your pet has the Sun in 6th House, he's probably very attached to routines and likes to make himself useful. This is an animal that could be particularly obedient and efficient when doing exercises or tasks. He takes great pleasure in following a well-structured schedule and performing actions that strengthen his relationship with you.

His Sun is in the 7th House

Your pet puts a lot of energy into its relationships. He probably has a very strong bond with another animal or person, and may be devoted to his favourite companion. He's motivated by collaboration and loyalty to those he considers his partners.

His Sun is in the 8th House

If the Sun is in the 8th House, your partner may be particularly profound and instinctive in his behaviour. He tends to invest a lot of energy in managing his fears or intense reactions. He may show signs of particular sensitivity in stressful situations, but he also has an impressive capacity to regenerate himself after difficult moments.

His Sun is in the 9th House

Your partner loves adventure and discovering new horizons. He's motivated by varied experiences and can be particularly enthusiastic about travelling or discovering new places. He loves to explore and feels alive when he's outdoors, in vast environments like parks or mountains.

His Sun is in the 10th House

Your partner is often seen as the pillar of the household. He may have a particular role, such as protector or host, and likes to be recognised for his place in the family. He puts a lot of energy into fulfilling this role and ensuring that his position is valued.

His Sun is in the 11th House

If your pet's Sun is in the 11th House, he's probably very sociable and enjoys the company of other animals. He invests his energy in group moments, shared games and community interactions. He appreciates outings to places where he can interact with other animals and express his joy collectively.

His Sun is in the 12th House

Your partner is reserved or introspective. He invests his energy in his moments of rest and needs tranquillity to recharge his batteries. He may also show a great capacity for devotion and sacrifice, putting the well-being of others before his own. They are sensitive to atmosphere and can provide a calming presence.

Your pet's Moon House

The Moon's position in an astrological house is a key indicator of the experiences that trigger emotional reactions in your pet and reveal the way it seeks security in its day-to-day life. This lunar location sheds light on situations that affect your pet deeply, whether it's his attachment to his environment, his need for closeness to his loved ones, or the way he deals with stress and the unknown. Understanding the house of the Moon in your pet's chart will help you to better understand his behaviour and emotional needs, and to create a living environment that reassures him and gives him confidence.

His Moon is in the 1st House

If your partner has the Moon in the 1st House, he'll be particularly reactive and expressive. His mood may be visible in his behaviour, rapidly changing from joyful to distrustful depending on the situation. He's very sensitive to moods and may reflect the emotional state of those around him. It needs a reassuring presence to feel safe.

His Moon is in the 2nd House

Your companion is strongly attached to his material environment. He attaches great importance to his toys, food and bed, and can be possessive of them. Changes to his space can make him nervous. To calm him down, it's essential to maintain his routine and offer him familiar objects.

His Moon is in the 3rd House

If the Moon is in the 3rd House, your companion is very communicative and curious. He likes to explore and interact with his immediate environment, and may react to noises or conversations in the house. He's also sensitive to movement and small adventures, showing emotional adaptability but needing attention to stay balanced.

His Moon is in the 4th House

With the Moon in the 4th House, your partner is deeply attached to his home and family. He constantly seeks the comfort and security of home, and could be particularly affectionate and protective towards you and your loved ones. He needs quiet moments in his familiar space to recharge his batteries emotionally.

His Moon is in the 5th House

If your pet's Moon is in the 5th House, it likes to play and express itself in a playful way. This is an animal that can be very joyful and demonstrative, seeking attention and willingly participating in family activities. However, they can also be sensitive to emotional fluctuations in their environment and need to be comforted in times of stress.

His Moon is in the 6th House

Your companion is very attached to his daily routines and practical activities. He may show anxiety if there are changes in his schedule. He is probably concerned about your well-being and may even show signs of devotion by trying to help or support you in your tasks.

His Moon is in the 7th House

If your pet has the Moon in the 7th House, he's very attached to his relationships, whether with you, another family member or an animal companion. They often seek companionship and may feel a strong need for interaction and connection. Prolonged solitude can make them anxious, so they'll particularly appreciate time spent with a partner.

His Moon is in the 8th House

With the Moon in the 8th House, your partner can be mysterious and have deep and sometimes unexpected reactions. He is very instinctive and can perceive the hidden emotions of others. He may need moments of calm to deal with his own emotions and recharge his batteries. He is sensitive to change, and major changes in his life may require time to adapt.

His Moon is in the 9th House

Your companion loves adventure and new horizons. He can be stimulated by walks in a variety of places and loves to explore. They have a thirst for discovery and are enthusiastic about new experiences. However, they can also become emotional when away from their familiar surroundings.

His Moon is in the 10th House

If your companion's Moon is in the 10th House, he feels responsible and may seek a certain recognition within his family pack. He wants to be seen and may be very protective or show leadership behaviour. Changes in family dynamics or structure may affect him more than other animals.

His Moon is in the 11th House

Your companion is very sociable and likes to be surrounded. He enjoys interacting with other animals and people, and can be particularly happy on group outings, such as walks in the park. He's sensitive to group dynamics and can become emotionally attached to friends he meets regularly.

His Moon is in the 12th House

If your partner has the Moon in the 12th House, he's introspective and needs moments of solitude to feel good. He could show great empathy towards you, absorbing your emotions and adapting to them. He is particularly sensitive and may seek quiet moments to relieve stress or relax. A peaceful atmosphere is essential for his well-being.

Mercury house of your pet

Mercury's position in an astrological house reveals the experiences that will help your companion develop his ability to understand and adapt. Whether it's exploring his territory, interacting with other dogs or playing games that appeal to his curiosity, Mercury's house indicates situations that sharpen his mind and make him more alert and attentive.

His Mercury is in the 1st House

If your companion has Mercury in the 1st House, he's lively and curious, often showing an interest in everything around him. His behaviour is communicative, whether through barking, expressive movements or close attention to your body language. They love to learn and may respond quickly to commands and educational games.

His Mercury is in the 2nd House

Your companion may show an attachment to his possessions and have a marked interest in his toys or food. He may also be somewhat protective of his possessions, using subtle signals to express his needs or preferences. They quickly learn the routines associated with mealtimes and important possessions.

His Mercury is in the 3rd House

If Mercury is in the 3rd House, your pet is particularly social and communicative. He loves interacting with other animals and people, and may even develop distinct signals to make himself understood. He's curious and loves to explore new places on walks, while remaining attentive to surrounding sounds and noises.

His Mercury is in the 4th House

Your partner may be very attentive to what's going on at home. He may show increased sensitivity to conversations and family interactions, reacting to tones of voice and movements in his space. He likes to learn in a familiar and comfortable environment, feeling secure through regular exchanges with those close to him.

His Mercury is in the 5th House

With Mercury in the 5th House, your partner has a playful and expressive nature. He's inclined to enjoy strategic games and could quickly learn tricks or playful activities. If your companion has Mercury in the 7th House, he's very relationship-oriented with his companions or favourite master. He often seeks to establish bonds through signals and subtle expressions. This is an animal that may seem to be conversing with you through gestures, barking or particular behaviours, seeking to interact in an interactive and collaborative way.

His Mercury is in the 8th House

With Mercury in the 8th House, your pet may show a more subtle intelligence and an interest in understanding complex situations. He may react strongly to changes in the environment and perceive details that other animals would overlook. This is an animal that seems to probe the emotions around it and reacts intuitively to intense situations.

His Mercury is in the 9th House

Your companion is enthusiastic about discovering new places and getting out and about. He's curious about outdoor environments and likes to explore larger spaces. You may notice that he's happiest when he's out of his usual surroundings, absorbing new experiences with interest and adaptability.

His Mercury is in the 10th House

If your partner's Mercury is in the 10th House, he likes to be the centre of attention and to be seen as an important member of the household. He may behave in ways that seem calculated to attract attention or get a reaction from you. He is often aware of his position and seeks to play a recognised role in the home.

His Mercury is in the 11th House

Your companion is particularly sociable and enjoys the company of other animals or humans. He enjoys group outings and social interaction, and could be the one to initiate play or communication. He's very attentive to other people's signals and likes to take part in group activities.

His Mercury is in the 12th House

If your partner has Mercury in the 12th House, he may be more introspective and silent, displaying a subtle intelligence. He observes more than he acts and may be particularly attentive to quiet moments and the behaviour of those close to him. This animal could also have an empathetic side, absorbing your emotions and responding to your needs in a discreet but attentive way.

Your pet's house of Venus

The house where Venus is located in your pet's natal chart reveals the experiences that bring him the most pleasure and those in which he finds sentimental fulfilment. It's in this sphere of life that his attachment, affection and displays of tenderness manifest themselves most intensely. Whether your partner finds joy in cuddling, playing in the open air, spending time with his family or in the tranquillity of a cosy corner, the house of Venus gives you precious clues as to how he expresses and receives love.

His Venus is in the 1st House

If your partner has Venus in the 1st House, he or she has an affectionate and charming nature. He naturally attracts attention with his gentle and friendly behaviour. They love to be cuddled and can be very expressive when they want affection. This is an animal that always seems to want to please and be petted.

His Venus is in the 2nd House

Your companion may show a particular attachment to his possessions, such as his toys, his bed or even his bowl. He appreciates comfort and likes cosy places. He may have a marked preference for certain types of treats or luxurious toys, showing a distinct taste for simple pleasures.

His Venus is in the 3rd House

If your pet has Venus in the 3rd House, he'll be sociable and enjoy communicating with those around him. He can be very affectionate with other animals and family members, often showing signs of joy when interacting with them. They are also gentle in their behaviour and like to take part in activities involving several people or animals.

His Venus is in the 4th House

With Venus in the 4th House, your partner loves being at home and feeling secure in his environment. He is probably attached to the members of his family and may enjoy shared moments of relaxation or rest. It's an animal that likes to snuggle up and shows tenderness towards the people in its home.

His Venus is in the 5th House

Your companion is cheerful and playful. He likes to have fun and may have a penchant for games that involve affectionate interaction. He likes to be the centre of attention and may display an almost theatrical attitude when trying to attract your attention and affection.

His Venus is in the 6th House

Your companion likes to take care of himself and be well looked after. He may show particular pleasure in grooming rituals and routines that include moments of tenderness and care. It's a pet that likes to be of service and may seem happy when it takes part in shared activities with you, such as regular walks.

His Venus is in the 7th House

If your companion has Venus in the 7th House, he could have a very special bond with a person or another animal. He likes harmonious relationships and does his best to avoid conflict. It's an animal that seeks companionship and could be an ideal companion, loving to stay close to you or its four-legged best friend.

His Venus is in the 8th House

With Venus in the 8th House, your partner may have a more intense nature when expressing affection. He shows attachment in a profound way and could be protective towards those he loves. He needs to feel emotionally secure and could be very sensitive to the moods of those around him.

His Venus is in the 9th House

Your companion loves adventure and discovery. He's happy to explore new places with you and enthusiastic about walks in natural environments. He appreciates shared time outdoors and often shows joy when you take him for a walk.

His Venus is in the 10th House

If your companion has Venus in the 10th House, he is perceived as a charming and affectionate member of the household. He likes to be admired and could show behaviours that reinforce his status as a beloved and cherished pet. He likes to please and could enjoy being the object of compliments and attention in his environment.

His Venus is in the 11th House

Your dog is sociable and enjoys socialising with other animals. It shows affection for its friends and could thrive in a dog park or social interaction environment. This is an animal that likes to be part of a group and shows friendly, engaging behaviour.

His Venus is in the 12th House

If your partner has Venus in the 12th House, he could have a more reserved side and appreciate quiet, intimate moments. He's affectionate, but in a subtle way and may prefer tender moments in private. He may show empathy and a deep emotional attachment, sometimes seeming to capture and soothe your own emotions.

Your pet's Mars House

The house in which Mars is located in your pet's natal chart reveals the experiences in which he deploys the most energy and shows his fighting spirit. Whether it's protecting his territory, defending his favourite toys or asserting his place in the world around him, Mars indicates the areas where your companion acts with determination and instinct. It's in this house that we see his unique way of fighting in the face of challenges and situations that require strength and courage. Understanding the position of Mars will enable you to anticipate his behaviour when it comes to defending what's important to him and to better support his natural impulses.

His Mars is in the 1st House

Your companion is energetic, lively and bold. He tends to be the first to react and can be very expressive in his movements. He often shows great courage and could be a natural leader among his peers. They enjoy activities that stimulate their energy and need plenty of exercise to keep them happy.

His Mars is in the 2nd House

If your partner has Mars in the 2nd House, he may have a strong attachment to his toys or food and defend firmly what he considers to be his possessions. He may show determination when it comes to winning or protecting what's his. Their energy often comes out when they're feeding themselves or playing with their favourite things.

His Mars is in the 3rd House

With Mars in 3rd House, your pet is curious and quick to explore its environment. He has a strong ability to interact actively with other animals and family members. He may be talkative and show a keen interest in everything that goes on around him. Their energy is directed towards communication and discovery.

His Mars is in the 4th House

Your companion is protective of his home and may be vigilant when it comes to defending his territory. He may show territorial behaviour by barking when he perceives an intruder. He likes the security of home, but he also needs to exercise to avoid frustration.

His Mars is in the 5th House

Your companion is very playful and may love physical activities such as running, jumping or playing with a ball. He puts a lot of energy into his games and may even be competitive. This is an animal that loves dynamic interaction and enjoys showing off its talents.

His Mars is in the 6th House

If your companion has Mars in the 6th House, he will be active in his daily routine and may enjoy feeling useful. This is an animal that excels in work or training activities, and it could have an obedient nature as long as its need for stimulation is satisfied. They put a lot of energy into accomplishing what is asked of them.

His Mars is in the 7th House

Your pet may interact vigorously with other animals or people. It may show a strong attachment to a specific companion, but also sometimes competitive tendencies. This is an animal that can be protective of its master and ready to defend those close to it.

His Mars is in the 8th House

If your partner has Mars in the 8th House, he has an intense and instinctive side. He may react profoundly to stressful situations or changes in his environment. He is resilient and shows an ability to recover quickly. He may also be a little secretive or mysterious in his behaviour.

His Mars is in the 9th House

With Mars in the 9th House, your partner has a strong taste for adventure and exploration. He or she may love walking in new places, hiking or outdoor activities. He has a strong desire to discover the world and needs a stimulating life to feel fulfilled.

His Mars is in the 10th House

Your partner is seen as active and ambitious. He may have a well-defined role in the household, such as protector or leader. He likes to be noticed and may show exemplary behaviour when it comes to protecting or putting himself forward.

His Mars is in the 11th House

If your companion has Mars in the 11th House, he enjoys interacting with other animals in a social context. He's active when he's in a group and can show dynamic, playful behaviour in a dog park. He may even take on the role of leader in group games.

His Mars is in the 12th House

Your partner may have a more reserved side, but he or she has intense inner energy. He may express his energy in subtle ways and need moments of tranquillity to recuperate. However, when he's motivated, he can show great determination. They are sensitive and can be protective in moments of vulnerability.

The interplanetary aspects of your pet

By observing your pet's natal chart, it's possible to spot configurations called "aspects of tension" between the planets. An aspect of tension occurs when the angle between two planets in a natal chart is close to 90° (square) or 180° (opposition) or 0° (conjunction with Mars, Saturn, Uranus and Pluto).

These aspects of tension reveal internal dynamics that shed light on your pet's behaviour. For your companion, an aspect of tension often means a challenge or a source of frustration in the way he acts, expresses himself or interacts with his environment. Knowing how to identify these aspects allows you to better understand certain unexpected reactions, such as nervousness, more aggressive behaviour or fearful attitudes to certain situations.

By knowing the aspects of tension present in your pet's chart, you'll be better prepared to accompany and support him in his moments of stress. This will help you to calm his anxieties and strengthen your bond by creating a more harmonious environment adapted to his particular needs.

His Sun is in tension with Pluto

Under this aspect of tension, your partner may display intense, sometimes dominant or possessive behaviour, which you'll need to balance with gentle but firm discipline, encouraging socialisation and providing safe spaces.

His Sun is in tension with Neptune

With Neptune-Sun in tension, he may be prone to confusion or heightened sensitivity, needing clear reference points and a reassuring routine to avoid anxiety.

His Sun is in tension with Uranus

A Uranus-Sun under tension can make your companion more nervous or unpredictable, and stimulating activities and moments of controlled freedom can help him manage his energy better.

His Sun is in a tension aspect to Saturn

With Saturn-Sun in tension, your partner may tend to be more reserved or have difficulty adapting to new situations, so providing a structured, reassuring environment while working on his self-confidence through progressive exercises will be beneficial.

His Sun is in tension with Jupiter

A tense Jupiter-Sun could make your partner too expansive or enthusiastic, requiring supervision to channel his or her energy and avoid excessive behaviour, while encouraging moments of relaxation.

His Sun is in a tension aspect to Mars

If your partner has a stressed Mars-Sun aspect, he or she may be more impulsive or aggressive, and it will be important to teach self-control through regular physical activity and calm management of his or her behaviour.

His Sun is in tension aspect to the Moon

Finally, with a tense Sun Moon, your partner may be more emotionally vulnerable, which calls for special attention to his emotional needs and management of periods of stress to help him feel secure. In all cases, the key is patience, consistency and a caring approach to understanding and supporting your partner.

His Moon is in tension with Pluto

If your partner has a Pluto Moon in tension, he or she may experience deep and intense emotions that are sometimes difficult to manage, requiring reassuring environments and regular relaxation practices to ease anxiety.

His Moon is in tension with Neptune

A Neptune-Moon in tension can lead to heightened sensitivity or emotional confusion, which is why it's important to create clear points of reference and maintain a stable routine to reinforce your emotional security.

His Moon is in tension with Uranus

With a Uranus-Moon in tension, your partner may be more nervous or find it difficult to cope with change, so it's advisable to offer him periods of predictability and allow him to adapt to new situations gradually.

His Moon is in tension with Saturn

A Saturn-Moon in tension can make your partner more reserved or distant, which will require you to give him or her more time to adapt to new experiences while reinforcing mutual trust through quality time.

His Moon is in tension with Jupiter

In the case of a Jupiter-Moon in tension, he could become excessively emotional or turbulent, so it's essential to supervise him with clear rules and regular physical activity to channel his energy.

His Moon is in tension with Mars

A Mars-Moon in conjunction, square or opposition can make your partner more impulsive or aggressive, requiring calm and assertive management of his emotions and behaviour, as well as exercises to expend his excess energy.

His Moon is in tension with the Sun

If your partner has a Sun-Moon in tension, he may be torn between his emotional needs and his instincts, which means helping him to find a balance between affection and independence, by creating an environment where he feels understood and listened to.

His Moon is in tension with Mercury

With a Mercury-Moon in tension, you may find it difficult to express your emotional needs clearly, so you need to be particularly attentive to your partner's signals and help them to feel heard and supported.

Her Moon is in tension with Venus

A Venus-Moon in tension can indicate contradictory emotional needs, requiring gentle management and a balance between affection and independence, taking care not to put too many emotional demands on your partner. In all cases, the key is to be patient, empathetic and consistent in understanding your partner's emotional needs and supporting them in a caring way.

Her Mercury is in tension with Pluto

When your partner shows aspects of tension between Pluto and Mercury, it may mean that he tends to be too secretive or keeps his thoughts to himself, making it difficult to understand his needs. It's important to offer him a calm environment and encourage him to express himself, paying attention to his subtle gestures and behaviour.

His Mercury is in tension with Neptune

If the aspect is Neptune-Mercury, your companion may be distracted or confused, sometimes finding it difficult to concentrate, especially if the environment is too hectic. Offer him moments of calm and clear interaction to help him refocus.

Her Mercury is in a tension aspect to Uranus

A Uranus-Mercury tension can make your companion nervous or reactive to change, so it's advisable to maintain a stable routine while gradually exposing him to new situations to prevent him from becoming too agitated.

His Mercury is in a tension aspect to Saturn

Saturn-Mercury in tension can make your partner more cautious or reserved, perhaps finding it difficult to adapt to new situations. To help him, be patient, encourage positive interactions and support him in his moments of uncertainty.

His Mercury is in a tension aspect to Jupiter

A Jupiter-Mercury tension can make your companion more exuberant or impulsive in his actions, which requires discipline to channel his energy and teach him to stay focused when interacting and learning.

His Mercury is in a tension aspect to Mars

With Mars-Mercury in square or opposition, he could react impulsively or aggressively, which requires guidance and calm management of his behaviour.

His Mercury is in tension aspect to the Moon

If your partner has a Moon-Mercury in tension, this could mean that he or she is having difficulty expressing his or her emotions in a coherent way, so you'll need to be particularly attentive to his or her signs and ensure that you establish an empathetic dialogue to help him or her feel understood. In all cases, the key is to be attentive to your companion's signs, maintain clear communication and be patient in the adaptation process to help him feel comfortable and secure.

Her Venus is in tension with Pluto

When your partner has a Pluto-Venus tension aspect, this may indicate that he has intense relationships with those around him, that he is possessive or jealous of certain objects or people. It's important to work on building trust and attachment, making sure to offer him moments of affection without pressure.

His Venus is in tension aspect to Neptune

With Neptune-Venus in tension, your partner may be prone to emotional confusion or an inability to understand his emotional needs, especially if he is overly influenced by his environment. Create a serene atmosphere and give him clear points of reference.

His Venus is in a tension aspect to Uranus

If the aspect is Uranus-Venus, this can cause your partner to be particularly capricious or unpredictable in his displays of affection. Be flexible and open to his changing needs, while maintaining a structure to help him feel secure.

His Venus is in a tension aspect to Saturn

Saturn-Venus in tension can make your partner more reserved or distant in his relationships, even a little overprotective. Take the time to give him moments of tenderness, gently, without forcing him to interact.

His Venus is in tension aspect to Jupiter

With Jupiter-Venus, your companion could be excessively enthusiastic or overindulgent, particularly in his dealings with his toys or his meals. Balance his energy by offering stimulating activities while teaching him to control his desires.

His Venus is in a tension aspect to Mars

A tense Mars-Venus can lead to impulsive behaviour, especially when playing or interacting with other animals. It's important to channel his energy by encouraging him to follow clear rules.

His Venus is in tension aspect to the Moon

If the aspect is Moon-Venus in tension, this can make your partner a little too dependent or attached to certain people or objects, constantly seeking sources of comfort. Encourage him to develop a certain independence, while making sure he feels reassured and loved. In all cases, balance and patience will be the keys to helping him navigate his relationships and emotions.

His Mars is in a tension aspect to Pluto

When your partner has a Pluto-Mars tension aspect, he may display intense energy, sometimes difficult to control, or a propensity to react explosively in certain situations. It's crucial to channel his energy through regular physical activity and to offer him a structured framework to avoid overbearing or violent behaviour.

His Mars is in a tension aspect to Neptune

With Neptune-Mars in tension, your companion can sometimes seem disoriented or lack direction, especially when confronted with new situations. Helping him to concentrate and feel more secure in his environment will enable him to better manage his impulses.

His Mars is in a tension aspect to Uranus

If the aspect is Uranus-Mars, he could be particularly unpredictable or excited, tending to act impulsively. Make sure you offer constant stimulation, but avoid overly chaotic environments that could upset his equilibrium.

His Mars is in a tension aspect to Saturn

A tense Saturn-Mars can make your companion slower or more reluctant to take action, sometimes frustrated by imposed limits. Encouraging him with positive rewards and helping him to develop his self-confidence as he goes along can ease these tensions.

His Mars is in a tension aspect to Jupiter

With Jupiter-Mars, your partner may tend to be too exuberant, even excessive in his activities. Give him an outlet for his boundless energy while maintaining a certain amount of control over his actions to avoid impulsive behaviour.

His Mars is in a tension aspect to the Sun

If the aspect is Sun-Mars, this may cause your partner to be particularly dominant or assertive. It's important to set clear limits while respecting his natural need to assert his authority.

His Mars is in tension aspect to the Moon

A tense Moon-Mars could make your partner emotionally reactive, changing moods quickly and forcefully. Encourage him to relax with calm activities, while providing a predictable and reassuring environment.

His Mars is in a tension aspect to Mercury

If the aspect is Mercury-Mars, your pet may have a tendency to act without thinking, especially in stressful situations. It would be beneficial to work on obedience and use training sessions to teach him to better control his impulses.

Her Mars is in a tension aspect to Venus

With Venus-Mars, your companion can be particularly passionate in his interactions, whether in play or relationships with other animals. It's important to supervise these interactions in a healthy way, ensuring that he learns to respect the limits of others while remaining balanced in his emotions. In all cases, work on managing his energy and emotions will be essential to avoid any form of frustration or excessive behaviour.

His Ascendant is in tension with Pluto

When your partner has a Pluto-Ascendant tension aspect, he may tend to project an intense and sometimes threatening energy, which can make his first impressions more intimidating. It's important to guide him through progressive social experiences and teach him to modulate his behaviour when dealing with strangers.

His Ascendant is in tension with Neptune

With Neptune-Ascendant in tension, your partner could give contradictory signals or be more difficult to understand, creating confusion in his interactions. Make sure you offer him a stable and predictable environment, and reinforce his confidence in you.

His Ascendant is in tension aspect to Uranus

If the aspect is Uranus-Ascendant, your partner may be unpredictable, reacting abruptly to sudden changes or new situations. Positive socialisation and regular mental stimulation will help him to manage his reactions better.

His Ascendant is in a tension aspect to Saturn

With a Saturn Ascendant in tension, your partner may seem more reserved, distant or difficult to approach at first. Patience and a gentle approach will be needed to make him feel at ease and accept warmer interactions.

His Ascendant is in tension aspect to Jupiter

A Jupiter-Ascendant in tension could cause your partner to appear excessively enthusiastic or invasive, not always knowing how to moderate his behaviour. It's useful to teach him to respect limits while channelling his positive energy into physical activities.

His Ascendant is in a tension aspect to Mars

With Mars Ascendant, your companion could display a more aggressive or competitive attitude, particularly in his interactions with other animals or humans. It would be beneficial to reinforce his obedience and teach him calmer behaviour, especially in stressful situations.

His Ascendant is in tension with the Sun

A Sun-Ascendant in tension can provoke a companion who seeks to impose his presence or to be the centre of attention. Working on the balance between assertiveness and respect for others will be essential for harmonious social interactions.

His Ascendant is in tension aspect to the Moon

If the aspect is Moon-Ascendant, your partner may be more sensitive or emotionally reactive to external stimuli, making him more susceptible to changes in his environment. Offering him a reassuring and predictable environment will help him to manage his emotions better.

His Ascendant is in tension aspect to Mercury

With this aspect of tension, communication difficulties may arise. You have difficulty understanding your pet because its needs are poorly expressed. It's crucial to listen carefully to its signals and teach it clear behaviour.

His Ascendant is in tension aspect to Venus

Finally, a Venus-Ascendant in tension could lead to a tendency to be overly possessive or demonstrative in his relationships with his masters or other animals. Helping him to develop a healthy relationship based on mutual respect, while cultivating emotional independence, will be the key to greater harmony. In all cases, education, patience and the right approach will help your pet to manage its tensions better and to flourish in its environment.

Astrological compatibility between a pet and its owner

In this chapter, we explore a fascinating aspect of astrology applied to pets: the compatibility between the animal and its owner according to their respective astrological charts. The main idea is that animals, like humans, can form more harmonious bonds with people whose astrological characteristics resonate with their own.

Astrological compatibility between an animal and its owner may seem surprising, but it provides a valuable framework for understanding and nurturing this unique relationship.

To understand the astrological compatibility between you and your pet, it is essential to know the rule of compatibility of the elements. This rule will serve as a basis for analysing the relationships between the different astrological signs present in your pet's natal chart and yours.

Compatibility rule for components :

-Fire (Aries, Leo, Sagittarius) is compatible with Air (Gemini, Libra, Aquarius). However, Fire is incompatible with Earth (Taurus, Virgo, Capricorn).

-Earth (Taurus, Virgo, Capricorn) is compatible with Water (Cancer, Scorpio, Pisces). On the other hand, Earth is incompatible with Air (Gemini, Libra, Aquarius).

-Air (Gemini, Libra, Aquarius) is compatible with Fire (Aries, Leo, Sagittarius). But Air can have difficulty understanding Earth (Taurus, Virgo, Capricorn).

-Water (Cancer, Scorpio, Pisces) is compatible with Earth (Taurus, Virgo, Capricorn). However, Water is at odds with Fire (Aries, Leo, Sagittarius).

To give you a clearer idea of some of the terms we'll be using in the context of affinities, here are some explanations of what a tense aspect and a harmonious aspect mean in astrology:

Definition of aspects :

A tension aspect occurs when the angle between two planets in a natal chart is close to 90° (square) or 180° (opposition) or 0° (conjunction with Mars, Saturn, Uranus and Pluto). These aspects are seen as dynamic configurations that create challenges, friction or conflicts between the energies of the planets concerned. They can indicate points of tension or areas of life where adjustments are needed in order to evolve. In the context of an owner/pet relationship, an aspect of tension may result in discordant behaviour or out-of-sync reactions, requiring special attention to restore balance.

A harmonious aspect occurs when the angle between two planets is 60° (sextile) or 120° (trine) or 0° (conjunction with the Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus and Jupiter). These aspects favour fluidity and cooperation between the energies of the planets, generating soothing and constructive exchanges. They indicate areas where the relationship is more fluid, allowing both parties to flourish together without undue effort. In the relationship between owner and pet, a harmonious aspect suggests an intuitive connection, mutual understanding and pleasant, natural interactions.

Ideal compatibility

Compatibility is ideal when the element of the pet's sun sign is identical or compatible with the element of its owner's sun sign.

For example, imagine a pet whose Sun is in Cancer. It will get on well with its owner, whose Sun is in Cancer, Scorpio or Pisces.

Everyday compatibility

When it comes to astrological compatibility between a pet and its owner, comparing their Moon signs is essential. The Moon represents the emotional sphere, states of mind and daily needs, including biological rhythms, eating habits and rest. If the elements of the owner's and companion's Moon signs are identical or compatible, their mutual understanding on an emotional and daily level will be natural and fluid. They will share synchronised rhythms and a common instinct for the needs of each day, which will reinforce the coherence of their exchanges and their life together. On the other hand, if these elements are incompatible, divergences may arise, creating gaps in habits, schedules and emotional management. In this case, greater patience and attentive listening will be needed to adjust expectations and encourage lasting harmony.

Compatibility in terms of communication

To assess the communication compatibility between a pet and its owner, it's essential to compare the Mercury sign of each. Mercury represents the way a being communicates, understands and interprets the world around it. When the elements of the Mercury signs of the pet and its owner are identical or compatible, mutual understanding is fluid and natural. On the other hand, if these elements are incompatible, communication may require more patience, listening and effort to achieve mutual understanding.

Understanding the compatibility between Mercury signs helps owners to adjust the way they communicate with their pets. A harmonious relationship is based on recognising differences and making a conscious effort to overcome potential incompatibilities.

Emotional compatibility

In the chapter on astrological compatibility between a pet and its owner, it's essential to compare the Venus signs of each. Venus represents the way affection is expressed and perceived, which directly influences the quality of emotional interactions. If the elements of the owner's and companion's Venus signs are identical or compatible, a natural and harmonious understanding develops on an emotional and affective level. On the other hand, if the elements are incompatible, it may require more effort, patience and listening on the part of the owner to adapt to his companion's needs and understand the way he expresses his affection.

Compatibility in terms of energy expenditure

In the chapter on astrological compatibility between a pet and its owner, it's also important to compare the Mars signs of each. Mars represents the way energy is spent, the way people act and defend themselves, which influences dynamic interactions and activities involving strength or determination. If the elements of the Mars signs of the owner and his companion are identical or compatible, they share a fluid and natural understanding in their common activities and the way they interact when it comes to expending themselves. However, if the elements are incompatible, this can lead to power relations at odds with each other, making interactions more difficult. In this case, patience and listening skills are needed to understand each person's needs and way of doing things. Knowing these aspects allows you to adjust your expectations and create appropriate activities, strengthening the bond with your companion.

Energy compatibility between you and your pet

When using astrological analysis in Synastry, it is fascinating to consider the energetic interactions between an owner and their pet. This approach allows us to understand how the planets of each influence the other and contribute to the quality of their relationship. A harmonious aspect between the planets of both parties encourages relaxation and cooperation, creating an atmosphere conducive to mutual well-being. Conversely, aspects marked by tension can reveal challenges, disagreements or adjustments that need to be made to improve cohabitation. Observing these exchanges helps to better understand the dynamics of the relationship and to cultivate a more balanced and enriching bond between owner and animal companion.

Your Sun is in a tension aspect with your pet's Moon:

If your companion seeks your attention or reacts emotionally, avoid responding with too much authority. He needs your empathy to feel understood and safe.

Your Sun is in harmonious aspect with your pet's Moon:

Your pet feels emotionally safe with you, and your successes or positive moods have a positive impact on its well-being.

Your Sun is in a tension aspect with your pet's Mars :

There may be times when your directives thwart your partner's natural impulses. This can make him frustrated or hesitant, especially when he's trying to assert himself and you react with overbearing behaviour.

Your Sun is in harmonious aspect with your pet's Mars:

You support your pet's expression and vitality, boosting its confidence and ability to act assertively. He feels valued and encouraged to explore his physical energy and strength.

Your Moon is in tension with your pet's Sun:

Your pet will feel upset if your emotions interfere with its instinct to act independently. It's important to give him room to express himself without over-mothering him.

Your Moon is in tension with your pet's Mars:

Your emotions and anxiety can sometimes get in the way of your pet's initiatives. When he's trying to assert himself, your emotional reactivity can throw him for a loop. This can make him nervous or reluctant to act freely.

Your Mercury is in a tension aspect with your pet's Mercury:

Communication between you can sometimes be difficult. You may not always understand your pet's signals, and vice versa. Take the time to observe and understand your pet's behaviour, and make sure you send clear, consistent messages.

Your Mercury is in harmonious aspect with your pet's Mercury:

Communication between the two of you is fluid. You easily understand his behaviour and respond in a way that shows he feels understood and listened to.

Your Venus is in a tension aspect with your pet's Venus :

The emotional connection can be a little complex, with times when each partner seems oblivious to the other's need for tenderness. It's important to create moments of complicity and to show affection on a consistent basis, to strengthen this bond.

Your Venus is in harmonious aspect with the Venus of your pet:

Your relationship is imbued with gentleness and harmony. You know how to create a loving environment where everyone feels loved and cherished. This fosters trust and mutual well-being.

Your Venus is in a tension aspect with your pet's Mars :

Your tenderness and gentleness have a calming effect on your pet's sometimes lively energy, but the context or the moment may not always be right. He may sometimes feel weakened or disarmed by affectionate attention that doesn't match his state of mind at the time. It's important to find the right balance so that your pet feels supported without losing its confidence.

Your Venus is in harmonious aspect with your pet's Mars:

Your natural affection helps to channel its energy and encourages its sociability. You have the ability to calm his ardour while respecting his strength. With you, he feels encouraged to express his energy in a positive, balanced way.

Your Mars is in a relaxed aspect to your pet's Sun:

Your dynamism and energy stimulate your pet and encourage it to pursue its goals. Your presence motivates him and he feels full of vitality and determination. With your support, he's better able to assert himself and achieve what he wants.

Your Mars is in a tension aspect to your pet's Sun:

Take the time to understand its limits so that you can stimulate it according to its true abilities.

Your Mars is in an aspect of tension with your pet's Mercury:

He may hesitate to communicate with you if he fears that your reactions will be too strong. Listening carefully, without interrupting or criticising, is essential if they are to feel safe and understood.

Your Mars is in harmonious aspect with your pet's Mercury:

Your energy stimulates their intelligence and encourages their curiosity. Your support allows them to feel relaxed and express themselves freely, strengthening your relationship of trust.

Your Mars is in a tension aspect with your pet's Venus :

Your pet may perceive your affectionate gestures as too urgent or invasive. To make him feel at ease, adopt a more relaxed approach and let him come to you naturally. Patience and gentleness are the keys to developing a harmonious bond.

Your Mars is in harmonious aspect with your pet's Venus:

You know how to inspire positive emotions and awaken a loving bond with him. Your way of interacting stimulates his joy and his desire to share. He feels attracted by your benevolent energy and opens up to moments of complicity.

Your Mars is in tension with your pet's Mars:

There may be a conflict over territory or dominance between you and your pet. Each may feel that the other is encroaching on their space, which can lead to irritation. It's important to be open and honest when tensions arise. Identify together what causes these moments of friction.

Your Mars is in harmonious aspect with your pet's Mars:

Your energy and that of your pet are perfectly matched, creating a dynamic and stimulating bond. You know how to motivate and inspire your pet. The energy you share makes for enriching shared activities that strengthen your bond.

Your Jupiter is in a tension aspect to your pet's Sun :

Your optimism and encouragement can sometimes be seen as excessive, pushing your pet beyond its capabilities. It's important to respect his limits and not project your own ambitions onto him.

Your Jupiter is in a relaxed aspect to your pet's Sun:

Your presence and optimism stimulate your pet's confidence and enthusiasm. You instil a positive energy that encourages him to explore new things and excel. Your support gives him a sense of security and well-being, and he's better able to seize opportunities with confidence.

Your Jupiter is in aspect to your pet's Venus:

Your relationship brings warmth and a sense of comfort to your pet, enriching its emotional life. You know how to make him happy and contribute to a harmonious and pleasant atmosphere. Your positive energy gives your pet a sense of well-being and emotional security.

Your Jupiter is in harmonious aspect with your pet's Mars:

Your optimistic outlook and encouragement boost your pet's confidence and determination. He feels supported in facing greater challenges and engaging in stimulating activities. Your presence inspires him to give his best.

Your Jupiter is in tension with your pet's Mars:

Your optimism and enthusiasm can sometimes push them beyond their abilities, which can make them stressed or anxious. Take care to assess your child's strengths and weaknesses before encouraging them to take on activities that are too demanding. A measured approach will help avoid exhaustion or anxiety.

Your Saturn is in a tension aspect to your pet's Sun:

Your disciplined nature and expectations can sometimes curb your pet's spontaneity and confidence. He may feel constrained or hesitant in your presence. To avoid this, encourage him to take the initiative and support him in his choices. Rejoice in his small victories and support him with kindness so that he feels comfortable and fulfilled.

Your Saturn is in a relaxed aspect to your pet's Sun:

Your pet feels stable and confident in your presence, which encourages it to make more considered decisions.

Your Saturn is in tension with your pet's Moon:

Your rigid or demanding approach can be detrimental to your pet's comfort and tranquillity. This can lead to anxiety in your pet, who may perceive you as being too strict or restrictive. It's important to be patient and let your pet organise its routine at its own pace, without imposing too rigid a framework.

Your Saturn is in a relaxed aspect with your pet's Moon:

Your wise, consistent approach contributes to his emotional well-being. He feels reassured and organised in your presence, which helps him to find a balanced rhythm. Thanks to you, they develop greater control over their behaviour and learn to manage their day-to-day lives more calmly.

Your Saturn is in tension with your pet's Mercury:

Your strict attitude or high expectations may inhibit your pet's natural expression. He may feel restricted and less inclined to react spontaneously or explore. Try to respect his initiatives and ways of communicating, even if they differ from yours, to foster a climate of trust and exchange.

Your Saturn is in harmonious aspect with your pet's Mercury:

Your wisdom and consistency help your pet to concentrate and stay attentive. You foster an environment conducive to communication and mental stability, which makes him more serene and enables him to learn and adapt with ease.

Your Saturn is in tension with your pet's Venus:

Your discipline and strict rules can create an emotional distance or chill emotional interactions. It's important to show tenderness and understanding towards your pet, so that it feels accepted and loved. Respect its emotional needs and make sure you create a warm environment.

Your Saturn is in harmonious aspect with your pet's Venus :

Your seriousness and commitment give your pet a sense of security and stability. He feels genuinely loved and appreciates the depth of your relationship. Your presence and consistency reinforce his feelings and help him to develop a relationship based on trust.

Your Saturn is in tension with your pet's Mars:

Your way of structuring or restricting can counteract your pet's energy and spontaneity. He may feel frustrated by the limits imposed, which can lead to impulsive behaviour or agitation. Try to give your pet enough freedom to express itself without feeling restricted.

Your Saturn is in harmonious aspect with your pet's Mars:

Your calmness and experience help them to channel their energy constructively. In your presence, he feels more balanced and reassured, enabling him to engage in activities with confidence and stability. You give them the support they need to develop and manage their energy smoothly.

Conclusion

Over the pages of this book, we have explored the richness and complexity of astrology as applied to our four-legged companions. This approach, although new to many, sheds light on a fascinating and often little-known aspect of the relationship between the stars and living beings. If astrology can reveal the hidden traits and motivations of human beings, it can also shed valuable light on the personality and behaviour of our pets.

Understanding the position of the planets at the time of your pet's birth gives you a better grasp of what makes your pet unique. Whether it's the playful energy of an animal marked by Mars in Aries or the quiet sensitivity of a Moon in Cancer, each planetary position in a sign or house reveals particular aspects of its temperament and reactions to the world. By taking into account the aspects between the planets, you can also discover how certain tensions or affinities between these influences can nuance his behaviour and his interactions with his environment. By knowing these elements, you can not only anticipate your companion's reactions and preferences, but also create an environment better suited to his needs and well-being.

Astrology does not claim to replace the love, patience and careful observation needed to understand our animals. On the contrary, it enriches this relationship by offering us an additional prism, a framework for interpretation that strengthens our ability to listen to them, support them and love them fully. This book aims to arouse your curiosity and encourage you to observe your animal in a new light, with the magic of the stars as a backdrop.

We hope that this astrological exploration has nurtured your bond with your companion and strengthened your complicity. Whether it's a cheerful dog, a thoughtful cat or another faithful friend, remember that every living thing is a constellation of idiosyncrasies, and your role as their loving guardian is to honour that uniqueness.

The stars will continue to shine, illuminating the path you share with your pet, and reminding you that, in this great cosmic ballet, every creature has its own place and its own special sparkle.
